

Swagger is a cutting-edge street style website that introduces you to NYC trendsetters influencing the fashion world one thread at a time. Started in Paris, Swagger has become the go-to place for fashion mavens and music-lovers alike. On any day, browse what the City's style underground is talking about - the trends, the styles, the music - and feel plugged into what you're not seeing anywhere else on TV or the web. With over 100,000 Facebook Fans and critical acclaim in various global publications (WSJ, NYMag, Nylon, etc) Swagger is a fresh start-up with much room to grow. Become a part of the savvy, fun and forward-thinking team!

KNOW how to tell a story through video? Have an interest in fashion, music, and NYC lifestyle? We're looking for a Pro at Final Cut who can create short video clips that tap into the heart of our trendsetters' stories. As video content is becoming key to the Swagger brand, you will be expected to cut ten video clips per week that range from 60 seconds to two minutes in length. You must be familiar with cutting documentary style footage, and prior experience working with online video content for an established media entity is a plus.

The Videographer/Video Editor Intern will be expected to work 12-15 hours per week.
